How to make a program in c++ at wikipow. Il giustiziere della notte 5 2 in italian in mp4 Q: Python remove words from list while keeping the order of the words I am a programmer who never had a problem until this question. So, what I need to do is the following: I have this list of words which I created like this: words = ['one', 'two', 'three', 'four', 'five', 'six', 'seven', 'eight', 'nine'] I would like to delete the first, the third and the fifth word. The problem is that I need to delete them so that I don't get: [2, 4, 6] because if I use for loop, it will delete them in the order they appear in the list, not the order they were deleted. A: You can try using a list comprehension : >>> words = ['one', 'two', 'three', 'four', 'five', 'six', 'seven', 'eight', 'nine'] >>> [x for x in words[2:6] if x not in words] ['four', 'six', 'seven'] [A new conceptual framework for understanding quality of care in chronic disease management: the experience of patients], the quality of care is an important component in chronic diseases management, but little is known about the experience of patients, to describe the experience of patients with chronic diseases in relation to a new theoretical framework that defines quality of care, this is a qualitative study. Four focus groups were held with patients with chronic diseases (diabetes mellitus and asthma) and their caregivers, using interpretative analysis as the methodological approach, the new theoretical framework, based on five characteristics of quality of care and the experience of patients, namely equity, effectiveness, patient-centeredness, efficiency, and safety, consists of the following characteristics: a) perceived quality; b) accessibility; c) continuity; d) comprehensiveness; and e) outcomes. the participants said that the basic characteristic of quality of care was perceived quality, that is, the combination of the characteristics a) and b). With regard to accessibility, the most important characteristic was the timeliness of medical care. Continuity was another characteristic mentioned by most of the participants. With regard to comprehensiveness, the most cited characteristic was the provision of all medical services. The
