A: Your code has a try-except block, which will handle all errors. This will cause it to just terminate with an empty response, and not recover from the error. If you want to send the current values of a collection, you need to catch and recover the error that occurs. In this case, you might want to change that: def multi_update(self, request, *args, kwargs): response = super(RestApiAdmin, self).multi_update(request, *args, kwargs) try: if not response['Content-Type'].startswith('multipart/form-data'): # This will probably never happen, but just in case if response['X-CSRFToken'] is not None: # login was successful, so we can remove the token response['X-CSRFToken'] = '' return response except Exception: return [] Colour cationization of synthetic oligonucleotides with the catalytic intermediate $H_2[Co(III)(NH_3)_3(H_2O)_2]^{2+}$. The strong nucleophilic attack of a bridged 2-amidobenzoate is used to introduce a new type of staining reagent that cationizes small organic molecules under mild conditions. The synthetic protocol was developed for DNA oligonucleotides modified at the 5' termini and the 3' ends of double-stranded oligonucleotides. The efficacy of the method was confirmed by 31P NMR, which indicated that the nucleobase was cationized in the case of RNA and DNA oligonucleotides. Nucleobase staining was seen in all cases with aqueous tetramethylammonium hydroxide (TMAH) buffer, but with aqueous ammonium hydroxide (NH₄OH), only the adenine nucleobase was cationized.
