Day 18: A Very Special Father's Day
This is a very special Father's Day for me and I wanted to give a quick video and some backstory to the day. At this point in my life my dad and I have been estranged for a while. We had a falling out and haven't really talked since. I was raised to always respect him but he was the source of a lot of problems in my life growing up and I believe that has caused me to have a hard time in my relationships with other people. This past Father's Day was the first time I was going to do something for him. I bought him a brand new mountain bike. I was able to go to the shop on a special morning where we would be able to ride it around for a couple of hours. I had a great time and I was also able to thank him for all the things he has done for me, and all the things he has taught me. It really put a big smile on my face knowing I was able to do something to thank him for all that he has done for me. If you have a father in your life, I would love to hear about any story you've had with your dad.

induced thyrotropin (TSH) and prolactin (PRL) release. The peptide P/OFQ, a member of the neuropeptide opioid family, significantly increased basal TSH and PRL release from rat adenohypophyseal (AP) explants. At low concentrations, P/OFQ did not affect basal TSH release, but at higher concentrations, it increased basal TSH release. This effect was blocked by the peptide antagonist (D-Tyr<sup>2</sup>, D-Trp<sup>3</sup>, D-Pen<sup>2</sup>, D-Pen<sup>3</sup>)P/OFQ. The peptide did not affect basal PRL release 2d92ce491b
