My problem is that I'm not sure how to get the number of combinations. A: Well, you have a list of $n$ objects, each of which is taken in $k$ positions. For example, for $k=3$ and $n=4$ you have a list of $4$ objects, each of which is selected in $3$ places. So there are $4^3=64$ possibilities. So, the number of combinations is $n!$, which is the factorial of $n$. (And you should realize that $n!$ is the number of permutations of $n$ elements.) Q: Syntax errors with php MySQL I'm trying to get the PHP and MySQL to work together but with no luck. Can someone tell me what's wrong with this syntax? $first = $_POST['first']; $last = $_POST['last']; $query = "SELECT * FROM people WHERE firstname = '$first' AND lastname = '$last';"; $result = mysql_query($query); if(mysql_num_rows($result) > 0) { echo "Your first name has already been taken"; } else { echo "Your name has been taken"; } The error I'm getting is: 2d92ce491b
