The best answer Cryptainer LE is a reliable software utility designed to protect your sensitive information by using a 128 bit encryption method. The application can encrypt files or even an entire disk, thus preventing the access of unauthorized individuals. Cryptainer LE relies on the Blowfish algorithm, efficiently securing your documents. This in turn makes it very difficult for anyone who does not have the proper password to access and manipulate your files. In order to protect your data, Cryptainer LE creates a password-protected 'vault' that you can use to place your files in. The 'vault' is perceived by your computer as any other drive, so you can simply drag and drop documents inside it, ensuring instant protection. The files protected with Cryptainer LE can only be viewed, accessed and changed if you have the proper password, otherwise being invisible. When you unmount the volume or exit the program, the 'vault' becomes invisible even to your operating system. Cryptainer LE enables you to create similar volume files on any type of removable storage devices (CDs, USBs, memory cards) so you can protect your data anytime, anywhere. This way, losing your USB drive does not put you at risk of having your information wrongly used. Additionally, this tool allows you to create and send encrypted email messages, ensuring that your private correspondence cannot be read by people other than the intended recipient. For your full protection, Cryptainer LE does not contain any back doors, so forgetting your password means there is no way of recovering it, other than remembering it yourself. Cryptainer LE is a great program that tries to meet the growing need for privacy and self-protection. The strong encryption method along with the storage flexibility make it a useful tool for anyone wishing for a better means of protecting themselves against prying eyes.

Protection against unauthorized access to data, emails, and other confidential information. Create secure, password-protected vaults that hold folders and documents. Encrypt files to make them invisible to others and to the operating system, so that only those who know the password can view, use or change the contents. Create and send encrypted email messages. Hide your private data by choosing to have it stored on removable devices. Create your own personal vault, crypting files for storage on removable media. Make passwords and private keys strong enough to pass any password-cracking or key-generation tool. Create Secure Password-Protected Storage Volumes Cryptainer LE stores files in a secure encrypted container you can name. You can have multiple containers on any form of removable media (USB pen drives, Compact Flash drives, etc.) for extra security. Each container is used like any other drive. You simply drag your data into the container, making it accessible to only you or to specified people. Cryptainer LE takes care of the encryption for you. The software uses a very strong Blowfish encryption, that makes it almost impossible to break. The tool makes sure that the password you use is really strong, so if you forget it, there is no way of recovering it. Encrypt Files Cryptainer LE allows you to encrypt individual files and even entire volumes. You can choose a simple text password or a more complex one; the tool makes sure you use an extremely strong password. You can also choose to unmount the volume before doing any modifications, so only you can see the files inside. Once a file is encrypted by Cryptainer LE, it is impossible to read the contents without the proper password. You can use the program to encrypt removable media as well. In this way, you can ensure that others cannot view your private data, even if you lose or leave your removable media with it. Encrypt and Unmount Storage Devices Cryptainer LE also supports USB flash drives and memory cards. You can encrypt any removable storage device that can be used with your computer. For a more secured way of managing your data, Cryptainer LE allows you to create and mount encrypted volumes for each removable device. The volumes can either be labeled or named. The drive becomes a real drive to the operating system, so you can access it just like any other removable storage device. Of course, only you or the recipient of your data can see the contents of the volume. This way, you can prevent anyone from tampering with your data or intentionally deleting
