Pentanet is a document management system that offers a full set of features to store your document in a database. Document management systems manage your document and allow you to recover them if you lose them. Let's take a quick look at what Pentanet provides you with. Database As of this moment, Pentanet provides you with a SQL Server 2000 database. This database contains your documents in it. However, since you can't import documents into Pentanet from other databases, you must be able to export the documents into the database for Pentanet to recognize them. This means that you have to backup your database first, then export them to another database, then import the documents into Pentanet. However, this is not a big deal. You just need to get comfortable with this process. Documents are also stored in folders. You can add up to 16000 folders and subfolders. Control Panels Pentanet has two control panels. These are called Document Center and User Center. Document Center The Document Center is where you store your documents. The Document Center is made up of folders that you create in the system. To use this control panel, you must have created some folders. The Document Center is also where you create your documents. Documents can be created in multiple formats: Word (.doc), Spreadsheet (.xls), Text (.txt), Portable Document Format (.pdf), and HTML (.html) and more. To create a document, you just need to double-click on it. You also have two options for your documents. You can store them in a password protected folder or as Public files. Public documents You can store your documents in public folders. These public documents are available for viewing by anyone and are also visible to others if you share them. To store a document in a public folder, just double-click on it and it will be automatically stored in the folder. Users The User Center is where you manage your users. Users can add custom fields, see their documents, search them, delete them, etc. The
