This is an easy to use, yet powerful plug-in that allows you to automate a range of repetitive tasks. Its large feature set is completed by the ability to perform batch operations on multiple files. You can also move or rename multiple files at once, and change their metadata, and if you're really motivated you can even go as far as creating a zip archive, if you want to bundle multiple files together into a single file. To find out more, have a look at the official product description and follow the installation guide. Hello, i have a library with 800 photos (JPEG files) and am trying to sort the photos based on one of two criteria, either the date the photo was taken or if a photo is a duplicate, i would like the old photo to be replaced with the new one. The folder /item set is made up of multiple folders and within the folders are multiple albums. Each album represents a set of photos, i.e. All of the photos within that folder represents the photos from a specific trip to a specific location. I have been trying to find a plug-in that will do this for me, but have not been able to find one. I think that it would be easiest if the plug-in would look at the directory and a folder, and would replace the old photo with the new one based on the date the photo was taken or if it is a duplicate. You say that the folder /item set is made up of multiple folders, can you give me an example of a folder name and the number of albums in that folder? As for the plug-in itself, I am interested in knowing if it is possible for the plug-in to do the following: 1. To look for files based on a type of data (based on the date the file was created, the name, the file size, etc.) 2. To look for duplicates within the folders 3. To replace a photo if it is a duplicate Thank you for your help and your time. It is greatly appreciated. Thank you for your quick reply and for your interest in my project. I will try to give you a little example of a folder. The folder /item set is made up of multiple folders. Each folder represents a trip to a specific location. The folders are named on the basis of the location, e.g. "Forest" 77a5ca646e
