Watch the video below for a detailed overview of Photoshop CS3. Tags: Learn, Photoshop CS3, Photoshop CS3 tutorials By Rob Copeland Natalie DiBlasio Washington Post Staff Writer Thursday, August 16, 2009; 12:59 PM Three years ago this week, President Barack Obama issued the first veto of his presidency, overruling a congressional vote to allow people to keep the health insurance they liked under the terms of the new health-care reform law. On Thursday, Obama celebrated his veto with the Senate Minority Leader, Mitch McConnell (R-Ky.), in a ceremony on the Senate floor. "You've got a market that's free and fair, and that's the way it should be," Obama told McConnell. "Mr. Leader, as of today, we no longer have a government-controlled market that is giving discounts to the insurance companies in exchange for kickbacks. That market is free and fair." In March, Congress passed and Obama signed the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act. The law, known as the Affordable Care Act or "Obamacare," expanded health care coverage to millions of uninsured Americans and subjected health insurers to federal oversight. McConnell said the law, which was passed almost unanimously, "would have been a disaster for the health-care system." Obama said the law will slow the growth of health care costs, and ensure that people with pre-existing medical conditions can no longer be denied insurance. "You passed this bill in the overwhelming majority, but for some reason, the president found an excuse not to sign it," McConnell said. "You have a president who's out of touch with the people he was elected to represent." After the vote, Obama recalled the personal sacrifices of his Democratic colleagues. "I can't help but think about those who were not here to cast their vote," Obama said. McConnell was not the only Republican to oppose Obama's veto. Several other Republicans joined McConnell on the dais, including Paul D. Ryan (Wis.), Charlie N. Mathias (Ind.), Jim DeMint (S.C.), Chuck Grassley (Iowa) and Saxby Chambliss (Ga.). Nathan Deal (Ga.), Jim Risch (Idaho), Michael F. Enzi (Wyo.) and John Hoeven (N.D.) also opposed the measure. McConnell

No one cares. With the new reality that 39 million people in the United States are living with melanoma -- and an estimated 5 million people are at high risk -- it's time to raise awareness, and help stop the disease. Melanoma is the deadliest form of skin cancer. And while it's easy to dismiss that number as heavy, it's still too many lives lost. Every person who gets this skin cancer is gone to his or her family, or their own individual story. Melanoma is no longer a woman's disease. It can strike men at any age and there are still no known risk factors. Matching beginnings We've all heard the familiar jokes about doctors and the elderly. In reality, younger people are also dying from melanoma. The average age of a681f4349e

What is the meaning of "it's a free thing"? Is it "You know,"? I am a non-native speaker. I'm sorry if this a silly question. A: "free" in this context does mean "freely available", i.e. for use, without reservation, without cost. The speaker doesn't mean "you know" in any way. It's just a way of saying "it's not something we should have to pay for". It's a free thing, you know. Q: The "
