which you can rely on for optimizing your HTML and ASPX files, considerably reducing their size and thus decreasing your website's traffic. The advantages of standalone tools As the name suggests, the program does not requires installation in order for you to work with it, sufficing that you double-click the executable to launch it. An added benefit of standalone utilities is represented by the fact that they can be stored and run from removable memory devices, which means you can carry Portable Romeolight HTMLminify with you wherever you need on a USB stick and use it on the go. Optimize HTML or ASPX code or entire files with a click The application features two main functions, specifically 'Batch' and 'Real Time', organized in distinct tabs so you can choose the one you wish to work with more easily. The 'Batch' section of Portable Romeolight HTMLminify lets you load multiple HTML and ASPX files in one go, simply by drag and dropping them over the main window. Prior to pressing the 'Start' button, you can configure the operation's execution parameters from a retractable menu. As such, you can opt to 'Preserve Comments' or 'Enable Javascript Optimization'. Similarly, you can 'Obfuscate Javascript', 'Enable CSS Optimization' as well as 'Preserve Server-Side Script', depending on your particular preferences. However, if you only need a bit of code optimized, you can copy it to clipboard and paste it in the 'Original Code' panel in the 'Real Time' tab. Pressing on 'Minify' decreases its size, the result being displayed in the second half of the window and allowing you to save it to HTML, HTML, CSHTML, ASPX or ASCX format. A useful web page optimizer In closing, Portable Romeolight HTMLminify is a handy and intuitive application that can successfully assist you in decreasing the size of your web design projects, individually or in bulk. It requires minimal system resources and is able to get the job done in just moments, thus saving you valuable time.
