Image copyright Getty Images Ricky Gervais has come out as a supporter of Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn. The comedian, 56, has launched a book called Life's a Riot - and they all deserve to Burn!, where he defends Mr Corbyn and other left-wing figures. And he's joined the Labour leader at a party in Carlisle on Wednesday evening. In his book, he defends Mr Corbyn after he faced criticism in June for saying he would only "love" an MP who stood as a Labour candidate. "I have some rather odd ideas," he writes. "I think that George Galloway should be prime minister and that the French president should be a woman. "I think that we should live under the rule of law rather than the will of the majority. "I think that Tony Blair was a war criminal and should be ashamed of himself. I think that David Cameron is a twat. I think that David Starkey should be put in charge of the BBC, and that Jeremy Corbyn is the future of Labour." Image copyright Getty Images He continued: "Can you imagine a time when the left of the Labour party get anything done? The left would get in so deep, it would be impossible to get them out... it would be like going to war with the other side. "The Labour party is supposed to be to the left, but it's also supposed to be the party of the working class. That means that we have to be more left than the left. We have to be the left." Mr Gervais also attacks the Westminster media - saying it is "biased" against Mr Corbyn and his supporters, citing the Mail on Sunday as an example. "The newspaper is funded by billionaires that were sucking up to the Tories, and the people who are the owners of the newspaper gave the job to a straight-up Blairite. So that's why the media is like it is," he wrote. His book is available for pre-order on Amazon. I'm excited to offer a 12 hour Intro to VB.NET class on January 24, 2001! What's New in the Adobe Photoshop 2021 (Version 22.2)?

Hallelujah Hippy! A group of Radical Hippies took a mighty sword and smote Satan's crew over at the Funky Jesus blog. They beat up on Satan's minions, wrecking their right-wing nuttiness. And now everyone is happy. The blog has been plastered with pictures of me, Jerry Falwell, and George W. Bush vomiting in unison. And Hallelujah, because hippies rock. I was thrilled when I received the news via my G-mail box. I don't know how they got my email address. Maybe they decided to troll me, but I don't think they know me. I'm already on a first name basis with Jerry, Betty, George, Tony, David, The Chicken Lady, and that guy from the Fudge Movie. I was more than a little scared when I read the news. I was on the bus coming home from the east coast the night it happened. Nobody knew, and I don't think anybody saw. I hate to say it but, in this age of political correctness, there will always be somebody who isn't happy when a group of hippies disrupt a HATE blog. But nobody cared about the hate. The truth hurts, but that's why we're here. It's our job to point out the evil doings of the right. Remember, it's not the truth that wins the day, it's the truth. Hallelujah, we did the right thing. And I think we should go out and see if we can get some other right-wing nut jobs to mess with us. That would be fun!
