“VPN Lifeguard is a small application that helps you when you use your network as a real VPN. It is easy to configure and maintain and it should not create any trouble, even if you are not familiar with VPN connections and how they work. It can be used only with the VPN PPTP. The software permits you to control the connection parameters, block the Internet access and avoid access problems. The interface is minimalist, it offers just the list of available networks and the list of configured programs. The application has a built-in proxy to define the preferred proxy for the Internet traffic. You can add an application that is not running on the server to be reloaded once the connection is restored. The list of the existing applications is also saved and can be restored once you exit from the program. If you are not satisfied with the performance of the connection, you can enable the real time monitoring. There is also a possibility to change the behavior of the application; you can start it on system start, start minimized to the system tray or stop the application. The application can be configured to work with a private network or with a public network. It can also configure itself automatically based on the network available. You can download VPN Lifeguard from here: “ A good reliable VPN provider is one that encrypts your data and keeps your privacy and safety. But it is also imperative that the VPN provider is discreet. I decided to buy one which has been giving a lot of trouble for me. I chose TP-Link because it is an old router which I have had for a long time and I liked its looks and the fact that its IP address range is not fixed. The 2 LAN interfaces and the WAN interface. The TP-Link Archer C6 AC1350V3 Archer C6 router offers two LAN interfaces and two WAN interfaces. The first LAN interface offers a very large amount of ports and you can use them according to your needs. Its main feature is the fact that it has a maximum throughput of 4 Gigabits per second (4 Gbps). The second LAN interface offers a maximum throughput of 1 Gigabit per second (1 Gbps). The network cards on both interfaces are 100 Mbit / 10 Mbit and the interfaces themselves are WAN and 1 gigabit / 2 gigabit respectively. The main advantage of this router is that the maximum throughput of the second interface is very small compared to the first one. It also has a firewall on its second interface that prevents the router to be used as a Wifi hotspot. It offers a very wide choice of software. It can be updated from the router itself or over the WAN (internet) interface. The router has a built-in web interface, it can be used to update software and firmware from the router itself. It can be used to remotely manage the router without any problems. At the beginning I did not like the idea of paying for a software which is not free. But when I saw the other advantages it offered, I agreed to buy it. The router offers a lot of services including a parental control, a VPN service, an unlimited WiFi hotspot (at a speed of up to 50 Mbps), an unlimited USB port, an HTTP/SOCKS proxy, 1d6a3396d6
