With a virtual online greenhouse and a product that manages the environment, you can grow your own food and even sell it just like a real one. So come and see what it is like to be a gardener in the next couple of years. published:10 Jan 2015 views:1680 Thinking of buying a greenhouse for plant growing. But you're just not sure how to go about it, this video will make it easier. published:18 Sep 2017 views:2716 If you're looking for a new way to be more self-sufficient, look no further than the modern greenhouse, also known as the hoop house or mobile greenhouse. Here's the owner of Als 4EverGreenhouse, showing how easy it is to grow fresh salad greens from April through October in pretty patio gardens. The different sizes of hoop houses, which can be made of high-tech materials, make growing a lot of food at once possible. Planting sunflowers and vegetables for greens inside at the start of the growing season is possible because less sunlight is reflected and blocked when the greenhouse goes up. Learn the basics of greenhouse gardening when Curt and Stacey walk up a simple garden plot in Florida where they grow an unusually large amount of produce including tomatoes, onions, potatoes, cucumbers and beans. In New Zealand, a company called Stealth Development is selling "sky house" greenhouses for use in gardens or outdoor environments. The greenhouses are sold and installed without walls or roofing, "completely customizable." Other vendors sell similar models for green growing in urban environments. The urban homesteader and designer can create a transparent and affordable house for growing food using sustainable and affordable materials under $500. This leads to a better use of limited city space and concrete garage areas. To watch the video in its entirety, visit: published:15 Apr 2014 views:37742
