drop by one percent in January Published duration 9 February 2017 image copyright Thinkstock UK house prices fell by 1% in January, according to the latest update from estate agency housebuilder IKEA. IKEA said prices dropped for the fifth straight month, with the average price for a property in Scotland down to £168,378. Prices in the rest of the UK fell by 0.9% in January after a 3% drop in December.
But prices in England and Wales rose by 3.1% in January, according to Halifax. Andrew McLean, house price expert at IKEA, said: "With the Help to Buy scheme coming to an end at the end of the year, it is a bit of a worry to see the property market in Scotland slowing down. "However, there are still some positives in the market, particularly at the lower end of the market, where prices in Scotland are still falling," he added. The Help to Buy scheme, which aims to get more first-time buyers onto the housing ladder, closed on 31 December.

Property prices are being pushed lower in Scotland in part because of a shortage of homes. Last month, Scottish first-time buyers enjoyed their best January for nine years. Buyers enjoyed a limited choice of properties at the lowest-cost end of the market, with the average price for a property falling by 2.4% to £132,816. Some of this price drop can be attributed to a fall in the number of properties available to first-time buyers, with 11,838 first-time buyers purchasing a home, according to the Scottish government. Why? How to fix it? The issue is with the following code: `{ var condition = TRUE; if (condition) { return new StringItem("foobar"); } else { return new StringItem("foo"); } }` The IntelliJ's codeformatting doesn't find the closing brace at the end of line 1, which makes the code look like this: `{ var condition = TRUE; if (condition) {`
