An.mw5 (MapWindow version 5) with a Web Server. MapWindow.Web Features: *. Runs as a Windows service. *. Instant deployment without registry hacking. *. User friendly GUI. *. Project Builder included. *. Server can handle many simultaneous users. *. Fast and efficient. *. No dependencies. *. Lightweight (no ActiveX controls used). *. Extremely fast start-up time. *. Can work across domain/internet security boundaries (no server port required). *. 100% easy to use. Version 1.12-rc1 MapWindow 2.1.x is here! New version of MapWindow and its Project Builder was just released. The new version incorporates the major changes and improvements that have been implemented since the release of MapWindow 1.8.x (the last stable version of MapWindow) and is available as a download link in the "Downloads" section of this site. If you want to start now, here is a link to the newly-released MapWindow 2.1.x Beta2 (with Project Builder and installers). Be sure to download and install the latest version of Project Builder before installing MapWindow, as the Windows Installer will warn you that the necessary files have been changed in the MapWindow installer. If you're updating from version 1.9.x or earlier, you will have to uninstall MapWindow 1.8.x before installing 2.1.x. If you have any questions, problems, or suggestions, please email me. After I installed MapWindow 1.8.2, the MapWindow control does not appear in the toolbox. The.mw5 project file I created earlier in the day is still there but nothing else has changed. I still have a 1.8.2 version of MapWindow.exe in my C:\Program Files\MapWindow\l. There were no errors when I installed the new version of MapWindow and no information on how to fix the problem (I tried reinstalling MapWindow 1.8.x several times and restarting the machine before the installer would start). I also tried uninstalling MapWindow from within Windows and reinstalling it there. I checked the forums and cannot find any similar problems reported. This is the project file I used to test MapWindow with new version 1.8.2: I would appreciate any suggestions on how to fix

As such, a radio receiver can be damaged when obstacles (e.g., a human or another object) are present between the radio receiver and the transmit antenna. The presence of the obstacles, in fact, can result in the production of multiple reflected signals which may be strongly correlated with the desired signal. Accordingly, the radio receiver may not properly decode the desired signal. One known solution for mitigating the effect of multiple reflections in a radio receiver is known as time-gating. In time-gating, the time-gating function (i.e., the function of identifying the desired signal) is based on a model of the radio environment.
