What's New in the Cool Cursors?

A Chrome extension that lets you browse without a dull old pointer. The variety of cursors is staggering, from wacky to spooky to character driven. You need to have an account to download the extension. If you're someone who is always worried about privacy issues, you can always get in touch with the extension's creator for guidance. Visit Cool Cursor and enjoy yourself browsing the web with different, cool Cursors. The best part? The design is completely up to you! More from the author: These extensions will add HTTPS or HSTS to Facebook pages to stop people hacking your user information. These Chrome extensions will lock your Facebook pages to HTTPS and add HSTS (HTTP Strict Transport Security) headers to stop people hacking your user information. If a user doesn't see the lock icon when they're being connected to Facebook over HTTPS they can be forced to use HTTP which can reveal their browsing history or worse. Facebook HTTPS extension supports both http and https pages. The OnOff button seems to be a little bit inconsistent. I've had it incorrectly activate on things like YouTube because of a 30 second delay between the request and the response. It's really odd. Using Gmail has a real delay like that. For now, I'm using that as a workaround, not sure if there's a fix or if it will ever get fixed. This extension can be set to block certain domains by setting a list of the urls you want to block. Once a domain is blocked, it will not be visited by you. You can choose up to 99 domains for this. A list of the sites blocked can be viewed in the settings and any blocked sites can be added or removed from the list. To block the requests to view a certain urls, the request is intercepted by a proxy that requires authentication. This means that if you want to see the url, you have to authenticate using username and password. Once this is done, the request is forwarded to the url you want to see. The extension is perfect if you want to block certain urls that you don't want yourself visiting but want to
