Feb 21, 2011 If you are using the latest version I have uploaded it to Github repository and its current version is v0.9.0. Some changes are minor compared to the previous release (0.8.0) Oct 22, 2011 Martin J. King is a Registered Education in Mathematics in Ontario. Some of these worksheets may have been posted to this site by Martin before he started his blog. David_D said on Jan 19th, 2008 at 7:43 PM No items have been added yet! Related Collections. Those of you using random-search may have run across this set. I've revised the software slightly to take into account the way MathCad searches for a solution, and it works much more efficiently than before. For some reason I've been having a lot of problems with my account on MathCad Forum since the beginning of the year, which has made it a bit difficult to update the site. I've also noticed that there have been problems with different posts being lost from time to time, so, in an effort to improve this, I've moved everything to a different forum altogether. This is the MathCad Forum. They're all the same. Also, the MathCad Forum is much easier to manage. Since I'm working on an automated blog-like system for MathCad Forum, I will be slowly moving all of the mathcad worksheets over to this forum. If you wish to keep following MathCad worksheets you will have to register for the MathCad Forum to join the group. Thanks for your patience. I hope that you enjoy the MathCad Forums. Apr 14, 2012 It's possible to search for MathCad worksheets much more efficiently now. Since MathCad generates search suggestions and autocomplete based on what you type, you can now type less to find what you are looking for. This also helps a lot with MathCad Forum and this site. It's also
