I get error telling me Could not install package 'Microsoft.AspNet.SignalR.Core 2.0.0-rc2-final'. You are trying to install this package into a project that targets.NETFramework,Version=v4.0 However, the package does not provide a project target framework compatible with the requested framework.NETFramework,Version=v4.0 Note that I have searched and tried all suggestions in unable to install SignalR 2 on Visual Studio 2010 and have tried to change target framework to 4.5 but still get this error. Is there any solution to this problem? A: I had a similar error when trying to install the RC2 version of SignalR and after some trial and error, I found that the easiest solution was to make sure that the target framework was the same as my project. Right click on the project in the solution explorer, properties, select Application tab, target framework, change it to 4.5 and try installing again. Friday, August 26, 2007 Finally... a design with practical applications. So far, I'd seen a LOT of digital art, but not too much useful or practical ideas. All things considered, this is one of the better examples of what could be, but I would make one minor adjustment. I agree with Mark, the dataflow diagram would be more easily understood if it was in a more logical flow. So, just a few more revisions here and there, and I'm ready to run out and buy my pre-fall line. This reminds me of the old Adobe Illustrator postscript font. They had a version in all the popular office fonts. This was the version that was always one pixel too narrow, or too wide, or half a pixel too high, etc. Then they released a version that was a bit more consistent, but it didn't really fix all the problems, because the source code is 54b84cb42d
