We love our fresh, juicy, straight out of the ground fruit straight from Australia and New Zealand. A less well known but not to be discounted variety is the banana. From our own experience of growing bananas in warm climates in New Zealand, there is no need to treat with chemicals or spray, just water and sunshine and some banana are all you need. It's the lighter finger size of fruit that takes the longest time to ripen that we grow in New Zealand for local consumption. You need a long season if you want to grow bananas. The heavy-duty bananas that we import from the tropics, take less time to ripen and need much less time between picking and ripening. When I was
