I've removed it. begin tran declare @v_id as int set @v_id = 1 declare @tableName as varchar(128) set @tableName = 'dbo.data_' + @v_id + '_cnt' select * into #\"DSN_sde.dbo.\" + QUOTENAME(@tableName) + '.tbl_Cnt' from sys.databases What does it expect me to return? A: The CREATE TABLE command does not include the body of the SELECT. The command CREATE TABLE #T is equivalent to the command CREATE TABLE ##T (That statement would be transformed by the parser into the following CREATE TABLE #T declare @tableName as varchar(128) set @tableName = 'dbo.data_' + @v_id + '_cnt' select * into #\"DSN_sde.dbo.\" + QUOTENAME(@tableName) + '.tbl_Cnt' from sys.databases select * into #\"DSN_sde.dbo.\" + QUOTENAME(@tableName) + '.tbl_Cnt' from sys.databases 1cdb36666d

GOP radio host conservative Iowa talk show host Steve Deace has said that he hopes no one will go to the polls in Iowa as "enough people have been shot, enough people have been gassed" in the US. Deace's comments came when he asked a caller "When is enough enough in this country?" He noted that there has been an increase in mass shootings and then said of the shootings in Texas and Oregon, "I have a question for you about, when is enough enough in this country?" and "When does enough become enough." "I hope no one goes to the polls in Iowa this weekend. It's becoming too dangerous for them to be there," Deace said. "Because in this country enough people have been shot, enough people have been gassed; enough people have been sickened by guns, people lost their children and their families... We've seen enough. And I want every person in America to get out of their homes and their safe places and stand up and defend your Second Amendment rights. And I'm going to use this as an excuse to tell you why.
