Step 1 – Download and Install You can download Photoshop Elements here. You may also have to sign in or register for a new Adobe account if you haven't done it recently. Open Photoshop Elements, log in or register and you're good to go. If you want to save the downloaded file for future use, create a new folder on your desktop and save it as PhotoshopElementsInstaller.dmg. Step 2 – Load an Image Open an image you want to use to create a meme in Photoshop Elements. You can either drag an image into Photoshop Elements from your desktop or open an image in Photo Viewer and use the "Open" button to select a local image. Step 3 – Change the Size If your image is bigger than the screen height, drag it and let it stretch. If your image is smaller than the screen width, drag it and let it shrink. Let go of the mouse button to make Photoshop Elements resize your image. Step 4 – Change the Size A new window will open below the image. Click on the white area to select the entire image. Drag the slider to change the size of the image. Step 5 – Fit to Screen Drag the lower half of the image below the screen. Optionally, drag the top half of the image above the screen. Step 6 – Center and Align Drag the handles on top of the image to align it. Step 7 – Edit Images You may find it easier to add new layers to edit images. Click on the "Layers" button and click on the "New" button to make new layers. Click on each layer and use the rectangular selection tool to edit it as you wish. Step 8 – Apply Effects Photoshop Elements has various built-in effects. You can edit them as you wish. Q: How do I add a 1px gap between list items? I have a list with a bottom border and I want a 1px gap between the items. Here is the CSS `ul.list-unstyled{ float: left; margin: 20px; padding: 10px 0; border-bottom: 1px solid #c4c4c4; } ul.list-unstyled li{ margin: 20px; } ul.list-unstyled li:first-child { margin-left: 0; } ul.list-unstyled li span { display: block; }` Here is a jsfiddle. I tried setting a padding, but the padding expands to the width of the border. So I can't get it to the 1px. Any ideas? A: You should simply use padding-bottom instead of padding: `ul.list-unstyled{ float: left; margin: 20px; padding-bottom: 1px; border-bottom: 1px solid #c4c4c4; }` JSFiddle With padding: like you've tried `ul.list-unstyled{ float: left; margin: 20px; padding: 10px 0; border-bottom: 1px solid #c4c4c4; } ul.list-unstyled li{ margin: 20px; } ul.list-unstyled li:first-child { margin-left: 0; } ul.list-unstyled li span { display: block; } ul.list-unstyled{ float: left; margin: 20px; padding: 10px 0; border-bottom: 1px solid #c4c4c4; } ul.list-unstyled li{`
