Back in the early days of Flash, we were using Macromedia Flash and the cool things that it could do. In fact, you could say that everything that you're about to learn here in this series has come from the wondrous adventures of Macromedia Flash. Well I'm very glad to see that we're back, but much more advanced and advanced than ever before. This is Flash MX 2004 as it's been re-launched. Which by the way is Adobe Flash X, but we're also... Having a mobile site is an essential need for businesses nowadays in a bid to have a maximum reach. In this tutorial, we will be creating a mobile website using Adobe Flash and publishing it to our server, FTP'ing it to our user's phone and accessing it from the phone. Please note that I will be using my personal phone and no device for debugging. So if any specific code that you run on your own device gives you errors, then simply don't mention that to me. Let's take a quick look at the steps... I want to create a font called "Efont" that will simulate the effect of having a font that is neither Times New Roman nor Arial. Some of you might think that it could be done using CSS and CSS2, but CSS and CSS2 have limitations that other fonts do not have. That is, of course, unless the font has a trick and does not need to be classified as one of the two "true" fonts. The font I want to create is called "Efont" and it b7e8fdf5c8

SiteMeter Widget

A great component for tracking site visitors. It allows you to easily display an image or text from a URL address, a list of URLs, or even a PHP file, and then track daily visits to a site. It can also display Google Analytics or other Google Analytics data for you. Features: Visits Summary Date / Time graph URL List Highlighted Downloads Highlighted Events Flexible Tagging IP Filter IP Stats The number of clicks and impressions, along with the number of visits, are displayed on a graph, which includes a list of your pages. The images and text from those pages are also displayed. The widget can be controlled by a scrollbar on the top or left side of the widget. A button at the bottom of the graph deletes individual URLs. A button at the top of the graph or left side changes the display of the list of URLs. The URL list can be displayed by month, by day, by hour, by minute, or by second. Featured - News Category The MultiNews FlipClock is a rotating Flash Clock that allows you to display a set of news articles on your website. The article list can be configured to display news headlines, or blog posts. There are many options to customize the number and layout of articles. The proposed script is based on the Yahoo Widget Engine to display a simple flash loop with the articles of you website, news categories or posts. Functionality 1.
