A: It's harder to see, but I think the first line is a typo -- probably meant to be "[x]", not "[x]". You don't want the variable to be greater than the greatest value ever to be scanned in this loop. Even if it is a number, that's a really bad idea. I think the second problem is related to your attempt to use a configuration change to restart the program.

Trying to do that will just crash the program -- whatever it is, it's not a problem with the plugin. A: E.g., if you're using the motor phase to indicate "off" and the power supply is connected to your PC, and you're then connecting to that PC. |
