Here's what I want to do: HTML JS I want to get the value '922b21af-f9bd-4310-91f7-a86e3745a34d' to do some server side processing and then the data-address to make a model like so: addresses.push({ customerId: '922b21af-f9bd-4310-91f7-a86e3745a34d', address: '922b21af-f9bd-4310-91f7-a86e3745a34d', type: 'web' }); The only way I can think to do that is via html, however the value of data-address is not guaranteed to be there, so I also need to know the type of it, so to do a comparison of whether it is a number, boolean, array, string, object, or null or undefined. How can I get the value and the type of data-address? A: You have to use getAttribute var attribute = document.querySelector("[data-address]").getAttribute("data-address"); var type = document.querySelector("[data-address]").getAttribute("data-type"); A: Try to use dataset or attributeMap of jquery $(function(){ $("span").each(function(){
