Last updated on.From the section Football Sheffield Wednesday progressed to the League Cup fourth round at the expense of Newport County and looked set to take a second-round shock lead to the Football League Cup. Shane Duffy, on as a substitute after coming off at half-time against Blackpool, twice went close before Ahmed Elmohamady headed home. The visitors had chances of their own from debutants Charlie Chew and Andy Webster. But Derby's Lewis Foster volleyed home after the break to settle the tie, following in a late injury-time goal from Jacob Butterfield. And the Owls made the win count as Alan Browne pulled off one of the biggest comebacks of the season. The Welshman looked down and out after going down in a tangle with Newport defender Danny Townsell before referee Craig Pawson showed him a straight red card for stamping on Townsell. Browne then jumped to his feet, shouted and kissed the turf as Owls manager Steve Bruce went to the bench and a man on the touchline held up his hands in despair as the League Two hosts looked to have killed their hopes of progression. However, Howe's side dominated the second half and Duffy was their man of the moment. Having gone off at the break, the Republic of Ireland winger had a wonderful chance to open the scoring seconds after the restart. Fumbling his first effort after being dispossessed in the box, Duffy struck a delicious, dipping effort into the roof of the net. He went close again shortly afterwards when, having appeared to be headed off the line by Townsell, Duffy latched on to a set-piece, which he struck poorly. The chance came after Richie Smallwood's shot was parried into the path of Duffy, who then blazed his effort over. Winger Webster then wasted an excellent chance to put the Owls in front after a long ball found him on the edge of the box. The lively Webster then survived two players rolling into him before he struck a fierce effort which hit the bar and went out for a corner. It did not take long for the Rams to make their entrance into the game as they took the lead after the 40th minute. Former Leicester City keeper Foster, on as a substitute, was in a goalkeeping tangle with Popescu and he then had to endure a yellow card for trying to take the Romanian

Q: What is the correct way to start an AsyncTask (to avoid callback hell)? I am trying to find a good way to start asynchronous tasks in Android and I have read that is not recommended to use the pre-defined class AsyncTask. I have also read about the AsyncTaskLoader class and its advantage of not using the Application Context, but i also find this to be the most complex way of starting AsyncTasks. What is the correct way to start an AsyncTask? A: It is good idea to use context everywhere because application context can be accessed from anywhere. You should not use activity context. Use application context to call your AsyncTask and return result to it in onPostExecute. A: I have successfully used AsyncTaskLoader since I found that using execute() throws an exception with AsyncTask deprecated. So here is my method. It works on android device and on emulator too. private AsyncTaskLoader getAdapterLoaderTask() { return new AsyncTaskLoader() { @Override protected Void loadInBackground() { Context context = getContext(); if (context!= null) { return DatabaseUtil.readData(); } return null; } @Override public void onLoadFinished(Void unused, Void unused) { } @Override public void onLoaderReset(Void unused) { } }; } A: Since Android API 17: Because AsyncTasks can be configured to create their own AsyncTask.Loader with: AsyncTaskOptions options = new AsyncTaskOptions
