Related Videos: Finally, do the following things on the computer: Press the Windows key + R to open the Run window and enter regedit to open Registry Editor. Go to the following key: HKEY_CURRENT_USER\Software\Classes Right-click on the new folder in the left pane and select New (Key) and then Registry Data (DWORD) from the context menu. This will create a new DWORD value named ReplacePassword. Right-click on the new DWORD value and choose Modify. The DWORD value will change to 1 and a new DWORD value named RemakeFilePassword is created. Rename the new DWORD value to Passwords. Now, on the desktop, open the Documents folder and right-click on the new folder and select New (Folder) and then Directory from the context menu. This will create a new directory named Passwords. Drag and drop the user interface of your preferred password manager (e.g. 1Password) into the new folder, in the location shown in the following figure. The location shown in the figure will be automatically updated with the name of your password manager. Do not modify the location shown in the figure. Do the following things on the computer: Go to Start > Run and type in regedit. Go to the following key: HKEY_CURRENT_USER\Software\Classes Right-click on the new folder in the left pane and select New (Key) and then Registry Data (REG_SZ) from the context menu. This will create a new REG_SZ value named Passwords. Right-click on the new REG_SZ value and choose Modify. The REG_SZ value will change to 1 and a new REG_SZ value named Passwords2 is created. Rename the new REG_SZ value to Passwords. Now, on the desktop, open the Documents folder and right-click on the new folder and select New (Folder) and then Directory from the context menu. This will create a new directory named Passwords.
