Thus, when the engine is idling, the engine can produce more noise than when it is operating. As well, idling of the engine can be harmful to the environment and produce exhaust fumes that can hurt people and animals, such as children or pets, who may inhale or ingest the fumes. Previous solutions to the problems of idling have relied on automated idle stop systems that disengage or shut off the engine when the vehicle is not in motion, such as when the vehicle is parked. These systems, however, can affect safety in that an operator or passenger may be distracted from the vehicle's surroundings during engine deactivation.Textiles How do you say it? And as a final note, please know that we are very, very happy to be local and extremely fortunate to do so. That being said, we at Home Textiles get a bit crazy talking about Textiles a lot! It's almost impossible to go a day without someone mentioning home textiles and sharing their personal experiences of them ("Did you hear the
