A descriptive study was carried out on the outcome of 455 children from the Lusaka Province, Zambia, enrolled in the course of a 7.5-year birth-preventive programme between 1981 and 1988 and on a sample of 439 children from two Melbourne suburbs. The median length of observation was 4.45 years for the Zambian children. All the Zambian children were still alive at the end of the study. Of the Australian children, 90% were still alive at the end of the study. There were two deaths in the Zambian community, a stillbirth and a death as a result of an accident.
