It can be tough for a hobbyist photographer to realize what is involved in producing images for a daily or weekly newspaper or for magazines or advertising. ## Working with a professional photographer As you grow in your expertise of photography and shooting techniques and technology, you may decide to move into taking commercial or travel assignments, and then you'll definitely be working with a professional photographer. The quality of the images will be higher than your own and the details will be much more exact. Be prepared for this shift in your work, because you'll need to move your photography outside of the comfort zone. What's New In?

Torrance, California (CNN) In the center of the sprawling city of Torrance, just north of Los Angeles, exists a man-made mountain of trash. Also known as "The Mountain of Trash," the trash-filled hill is not natural or man-made, but a result of a simple mistake. A landfill dump by a single contractor has left over 200 tons of debris -- from wood to soiled diapers -- undisturbed for more than two decades. Long ago, the contractor mixed trash with soil at the site, mistakenly substituting it for a special landfill mixture. The piles of junk remained for years, with no one knowing the mistake until a nearby woman made the connection at the news. "It's kind of like a giant Lego set," said Canyon Gate resident Jill Kornfuehrer, who came upon the trash pile as a student and has since become concerned about her neighbors' safety and about the mountain. The piles, which contain mostly paper, candy wrappers, plastic, batteries and other solids, are about five feet high and built up all the way to the edge of the street. The Hill of Trash The Torrance resident told Kornfuehrer that her friend, retired Los Angeles firefighter Maria Garcia, found the piles on her drive home to Santa Fe Springs from her job at a nearby school. Garcia, like many of her neighbors, has lived in Canyon Gate for years. Like the majority of the residents in the small gated community, she's one of the community's founding members. She told Kornfuehrer that she knew the trash pile existed. After the woman learned of its existence, she set about to raise awareness about the issue. "Every time I'd go to the parking lot, there'd be trash sitting on the ground," Kornfuehrer said. "I have kids. I don't want them to be picking it up." Neighbors have been keeping a log of the date when the trash was deposited and its location. When she learned of the pile's existence, Kornfuehrer grew concerned for the safety of her students and her neighbors. After all, trash can be dangerous if not taken care of. "I came here to see if I could find out about when it was dumped," she said. "And the history of the dump is like the history of our neighborhood."
