In many cases, a social network may store information describing various items. For example, a social network may include a product catalog listing items, such as books, available for purchase, or clothing items. Typically, these listings of available items are made available to users in order to facilitate an exchange of information between the users. For example, a user may search for items using a search engine application to locate various items that can be purchased on the social network. The user may then post information about the items, such as a description or price, so that other users on the social network may find the items of interest. Currently, information about many items is updated by the social network. However, update of the information about the items may be inconsistent across the social network. For example, a social network may permit users to update the information about items that they have purchased or are selling. However, the users may be prohibited from updating the information about items that are not for sale. Q: How do I disable a Customized TFS Web Access page but keep the web access functional? I have customized the TFS web access page in the team project collection for our team to consist of many sub-pages that I am having issues navigating. The problem is that if I navigate to an existing team project, the default web access page is displayed, along with the customized pages I made. I want to disable the custom web access page but still have the web access functional. Is there a way to do this via the Web.config file or some similar way? A: Sorry if I'm not exactly answering your question correctly here, but I'm having problems with figuring out how to reproduce. I just got a local instance of the TFS API working and have a functioning web access page. It should help you. `var httpClient = new HttpClient(); //Set the base url for the web access page var httpBaseUri = "";`

//Use the http client to get the web access for the project that I am in var tfsWebAccess = new TfsTeamProjectCollection(httpBaseUri + _projectName); var workItemService = tfsWebAccess.GetService();
//Get the folder. var folder = workItemService.QueryFolders(_projectName); //Get the query var query = folder.Query; var queryExpression = query.Where(wq => wq.WorkItemType == "Bug"); //Execute the query against the repository var bugs = queryExpression.GetActivityFeed(1); //Output the results to the console Console.WriteLine(bugs.ToString());
