PC Games & Games New Dmvc s.r.o. September 6, 2005 PC Supports Windows NT 4.0, 2000, XP, ME, 2k, and 2003; MAC OS X 10.3.5 or later; Unix; Linux; Intel Pentium/Celeron 1.3 GHz or faster, 100Mb or more RAM (256MB for LAV) support; NTSC-U/J/F and PAL-B standard and require DirectX 8 or higher. (DirectX8 compatible cards are fine, but how do you know? A full-featured, multitasking machine for serious media enthusiasts. Plug your Creative Sound Blaster or compatible PC speakers into the standard on-board 5. 1-mm headphone/line-out jacks and you're good to goâ€"unlike onboard speakers that require proprietary headsets to work correctly. The 5. 1-mm headphones/line-out ports plug into the integrated stereo speaker system, which features variable-gain volume controls and volume. A single lumen of output light runs beneath the headphone/line-out jack and power switchâ€"providing dual status indicators in the dark or the brightest light availableâ€"for easy locating in the dark. The preamp is powered by a single AAA battery that lasts up to 2 years. Use the dual preamp bypass switch to bypass the Preamp when only using the preamp inputsâ€"for when you don't have any plugs or cables to connect to the headphone/line-out outputs. The Loop Networks 8-in. LCD video screen features a 1,280-by-720-pixel resolution, while the onboard graphic features one 16-bit depth. The single 4. 3-volt DC power input accepts a single 9-volt DC adapter for connection to the phono preamp alone. (For the safety of children and pets, the output power is limited to 100 watts per channel.) Audio inputs include standard RCA phono line-level stereo inputs (opt. RCA line-level inputs included) and a single 1/8-inch line-level stereo input for an optional external preamp. The supplied IR receiver supports remote control of the phono preamp with the included chroma signal remote. For operating system compatibility, the Loop Networks 8-in. LCD video screen features a built-in clock. The unit is

The present invention relates to corrosion resistant membranes and processes for the preparation thereof. More particularly, the present invention relates to membranes comprising cured polyimides formed from an N,N'-dialkoxyimide component which are useful for the exclusion of metal ions from an aqueous fluid. It is well known that the exposure of certain metals to certain aqueous fluids gives rise to severe corrosion problems. More particularly, it is known that sodium in water undergoing an electrochemical reaction in the presence of sodium chloride is attacked by oxygen present in the water to give sodium chloride. In addition, iron is attacked to form iron hydroxide. Various solutions to the corrosion problem have been proposed, including anodic protection in which an electrical potential is applied to an anodic rod immersed in the a
