the video download market is not without its rivals. the big online streaming sites like netflix and amazon prime video already offer video download options, as do online video rentals sites like amazon and netflix. and consumers also have the option of buying individual movies and television shows on blu-ray discs. but the emergence of new video download services over the past few months has created a lot of interest in the video download market. video downloads are often categorized as either on-demand or on-ramp services. on-demand services are for consumers who are looking for a particular movie or television show, but who don't want to spend the time to find it. if a consumer chooses to select a title for download, the cost of that title is usually borne by the consumer. on-ramp services are for consumers who want to sample a movie or television show, but who don't want to commit to a full purchase at the moment. if a consumer chooses to select a title for download, the price of that title is usually paid by the consumer, usually in the form of a monthly subscription fee. but this isn't a requirement. in fact, some companies offer free trials of their services to try it out. both on-ramp and on-demand services are trying to capitalize on the ease of accessing content online. while these services are available on mobile devices, tablets, and computers, most people are using their tvs, gaming consoles, and streaming devices to watch online video. the streaming services are providing a large catalog of titles that consumers can view at any time, and are trying to shift the emphasis to video downloads.

vue is a streaming service that gives you access to content across a variety of platforms, and to top that off its attractive. initially vue will only work on chromecast and ios and android devices, but is coming to tv sets and android web browsers in the future. its famous for providing you with a choice of what you watch, with the ability to switch between different content providers, for example, watch tv where it is already shown on tv, or download it for offline viewing. you can also instantly start playing videos on your smartphone or tablet, simply by casting them on a tv. in the future vue will also support smart tvs from samsung, lg and sony. when it comes to on-demand video streaming services, the big hitters are netflix and amazon. the service works via a smart tv, simply set the desired video up for streaming on your tv screen, and when you want to move from one video to the other, just tap the round disc symbol on the remote. netflix lets you create a free 'netflix account' on the home network of a compatible tv in order to use the service on that device, and additional devices can be added in the future to extend your netflix streaming universe. amazon prime video is the same story as netflix, with the added ability to borrow items from the larger amazon store. in this day and age of the internet and computer, the concept of working away from your pc at home is anathema. if you want to be productive, you need to be able to get your work done from anywhere on your home network - whether you have a desktop pc or laptop, laptop, tablet or mobile phone. 5ec8ef588b
